2. INVESTMENT INDICATORS

UK / US/ Global

UKTI Reports Record Year for Inward Investment

UK Trade & Investment, the UK's national inward investment and overseas trade organization, has reported that a total of 1,744 foreign direct investment (FDI) projects from 53 countries were recorded in 2008/09, a performance that represents an 11% increase on 2007/08 and a fifth successive year of growth.

New investments comprised 47% of the projects. The balance was split equally between expansions and mergers, joint ventures and acquisitions. Investments this year created over 35,000 new jobs (over 78,000 jobs created or safeguarded). In the past six years over 215,000 new jobs have been created due to inward investment projects (almost 500,000 jobs created or safeguarded).

This performance underlines the UK's continuing status as the leading inward investment location in Europe, as confirmed by Ernst & Young's European Investment Monitor in June 2009, and second as an international location only to the United States (UNCTAD World Investment Report, October 2008). The UK is also attracting investment from more countries than ever before. Fifty three countries invested in 2008/09, up from 48 the previous year.

FDI Into London

Between April 2008 and March 2009 UKTI reported 527 foreign direct investment projects creating and safeguarding over 11,500 jobs in London, highlighting the resilience of foreign direct investment into the capital during the economic downturn.

London continues to drive FDI into the UK, accounting for 30% of all foreign direct investment into the UK. Furthermore, FDI contributes more than a quarter to London's economy, generating more than £52 billion each year. More than half a million people in London work in overseas-owned firms.

FDI into Europe in 2008

Inward investment into Europe was flat in 2008, according to Ernst & Young's European Investment Monitor, demonstrating the global recession's toll on investment projects into the region.

It revealed that in 2008 Europe secured 3,718 investment announcements, six more projects than in 2007. The number of projects remained steady but the impact of the impending recession on new employment was severe. The number of jobs created fell 16% to 148,333, accelerating a downward trend underway since 2004.

Retaining its ranking as the most attractive European location for FDI, the UK attracted 686 investment projects in 2008 - 4% less than in 2007. The leading recipients of FDI in Europe showed little change, despite the economic turmoil.

France, Germany and Spain, which have been the most important countries for the attraction of foreign investment projects since 1997, remained the top four countries. There were positive or relatively stable trends in Germany, Switzerland, Sweden, Italy and Ireland. Germany's 28% increase - was fuelled by new regional headquarters for German or Eastern European markets, and by industrial demand for business services and software.

Europe's inward investment market remains mostly fuelled by European (German, British and French mostly) and US investors (51% and 25% respectively). BRIC investors contributed to a relatively small number of projects into Europe (6%), but the trend is rising fast: projects from China and India have jumped from 118 to 182 projects. This has particularly benefited the UK.

Global FDI 2009 – First Quarter

Global foreign direct investment (FDI) inflows and cross-border mergers and acquisitions (M&As) – the main mode of FDI – drastically declined in the last quarter of 2008, and the fall has continued into 2009, UNCTAD data reveal.

FDI inflows dropped by 54% per cent and M&As by 77% during the first quarter of 2009 as compared to the same period last year. Prospects for FDI will remain gloomy for the rest of the year, UNCTAD economists say.

According to UNCTAD, the data on FDI flows available for the first quarter of 2009 reveal a drastic plummet. The 54% decline was apparent among the 57 countries for which quarterly data on FDI inflows were available as of mid-June 2009 (which account for roughly 60% of global inflows). Forty-three countries, including major host countries such as Brazil, China, and the Russian Federation, recorded declines.

FDI outflows for the same period fell by 57% for 47 countries (accounting also for about 60% of global FDI outflows) for which such data are available. Thus, the majority of these countries (37 out of 47), including major investors such as France, Germany, Japan, and the United States, experienced declines in FDI outflows in the first quarter of 2009.

Foreign Direct Investors' Outlays to Acquire or Establish U.S. Businesses Increased in 2008

Outlays by foreign direct investors to acquire or establish U.S. businesses increased 3% in 2008, to $260.4 billion. Among major industries, there was a substantial increase in outlays in manufacturing, which accounted for the majority of the spending by investors in 2008. Outlays were also large in information and in finance. Outlays in real estate fell sharply. Outlays increased from investors in Europe, Latin America and other Western Hemisphere and in the Asia and Pacific region. As in previous years, the largest share of outlays was from European investors. Outlays by investors from Canada and the Middle East fell.

In 2008, as in previous years, most outlays by foreign direct investors were to acquire existing businesses. These outlays were $242.8 billion, compared with $17.6 billion to establish new U.S. businesses. Outlays made by, or through, existing U.S. businesses were $213.3 billion, much greater than the outlays of $47.1 billion made directly by foreign investors.

Outlays in manufacturing rose to $141.1 billion from $118.4 billion and accounted for more than half of total outlays in 2008. Outside manufacturing, outlays continued to be high in financial industries such as securities and commodities brokers, insurance, and depository institutions (banking).

By country of ultimate beneficial owner, outlays by European investors rose to $157.9 billion and represented 61% of total outlays in 2008. Much of the increase in European investment was accounted for by Belgium and Finland. Outlays by investors from the United Kingdom, which in previous years has often been the largest investing country, fell sharply. Outlays from Asia and Pacific rose, with Japanese investors more than accounting for the total increase and for over 60% percent of the region's outlays. Spending by investors from Latin America and Other Western Hemisphere also rose in 2008.

Employment and Assets of Newly Acquired or Established Businesses

In 2008, U.S. businesses that were newly acquired or established by foreign direct investors had 368,500 employees, compared with 496,600 employees in 2007. Employment at newly acquired or established firms was largest in manufacturing (146,600) followed by finance (except depository institutions) and insurance (95,700). The total assets of newly acquired or established businesses were $895.7 billion, up from $411.8 billion in 2007. Newly acquired businesses in finance (except depository institutions) and insurance accounted for the largest share of assets in 2008.

U.S. Net International Investment Position at Yearend 2008

The U.S. net international investment position at yearend 2008 was - $3,469.2 billion (preliminary), as the value of foreign investments in the United States continued to exceed the value of U.S. investments abroad (At yearend 2007, the U.S. net international investment position was - $2,139.9 billion (revised)).

The following are highlights for 2008:

US owned assets abroad increased $1,609.3 billion to $19,888.2 billion.

US holdings of financial derivatives as assets increased $4,065.2 billion to $6,624.5 billion.

US official reserve assets increased $16.5 billion to $293.7 billion and US government assets other than official reserve assets increased $529.6 billion to $624.1 billion.

The stock of US direct investment abroad at current cost increased $247.3 billion to $3,698.8 billion.

US holdings of foreign securities decreased $2,590.8 billion to $4,244.3 billion, mainly due to a decrease in the value of U.S. holdings of foreign stocks.

Claims on foreigners reported by US banks decreased $410.8 billion to $3,410.8 billion.

Claims on foreigners reported by US nonbanks decreased $247.8 billion to $991.9 billion.

Foreign-owned assets in the United States increased $2,938.6 billion to $23,357.4 billion.

US holdings of financial derivatives as liabilities (with negative gross value) increased $3,977.1 billion to $6,465.0 billion.

Foreign official assets in the United States increased $467.4 billion to $3,871.4 billion.

Foreign private holdings of Treasury securities increased $245.3 billion to $885.0 billion.

The stock of foreign direct investment in the United States at current cost increased $196.7 billion to $2,646.8 billion.

Foreign private holdings of US securities other than US Treasury securities decreased $1,486.5 billion to $4,703.5 billion, mainly due to declines in the prices of foreign-held US stocks.

Liabilities to private foreign residents reported by US banks decreased $363.2 billion to $3,611.4 billion.

Liabilities to private foreign residents reported by US nonbanks decreased $127.2 billion to $873.2 billion.

Michelson Diagnostics Opens US Office

Michelson Diagnostics Ltd has opened a U.S. sales and support office in Fuquay-Varina, NC, in the Research Triangle vicinity of Raleigh-Durham. The office is headed by Kevin C. Oakley, Michelson's new Business Development Manager (US). The office will act as a hub for growth of MDL's business in the field of optical coherence tomography (OCT) imaging. OCT has great applications potential in fields such as skin cancer diagnosis, genetics research and tissue engineering development. "We already have US sales and are experiencing rapid growth of US enquiries in multiple market segments," said Jon Holmes, CEO of Michelson Diagnostics Ltd, "so it makes sense for us to establish a US presence to enable us to pursue these opportunities more effectively and to provide US customers with local support and service."
